Projects

Hynext - modern blog app
Next.js, React, CSS modules, ES6+, graphql-request, hygraph

🐙 Hynext - GitHub

The project is a web application that functions as a blog, created using the Next.js framework with Hygraph content management system. The blog application created using Next.js and Hygraph provides a powerful and flexible platform for creating and publishing blog content. Users can create and manage blog posts, add images and other media. The application also includes search engine optimization features and is optimized for performance (PSI)

Personal portfolio website
React, CSS, ES6+, email.js, react-scroll

🐙 Portfolio - GitHub

It provides a clean and modern design, with features such as a responsive layout, smooth animations, and interactive elements that enhance the user experience. The website includes sections for displaying information about the developer's work experience, skills, and projects. One of the benefits of using React for this project is the ability to easily update and maintain the website's content. The website can be updated with new projects and achievements without requiring extensive changes to the underlying codebase.

Experience

09.2022 – Present
Kerris Group
SEO Specialist
I am responsible for managing and executing various projects for client websites to improve their organic search visibility and traffic. This involves conducting a thorough audit of the website, identifying areas of improvement, and creating a tailored SEO strategy that aligns with the client's goals. I also collaborate with various people, including web developers, content writers, and social media managers, to ensure that the SEO strategy is effectively integrated across all online channels.

06-09.2022
Grupa iCEA
Junior SEO Specialist
I played a key role in supporting the SEO team in implementing and optimizing SEO strategies for clients. In this role, I conduct keyword research and perform on-page optimization, and I analyzed website performance metrics to make data-driven recommendations for improving organic search visibility and traffic.
